

Residential Green Building Rating Systems: Dive into the Details

Learn how to use the Regional Residential Green Building Rating System, LEED for Homes and the National Green Building Standard to design, build and sell energy efficient, water efficient healthy homes.

This seminar series is designed for home building industry professionals: developers, designers, architects, engineers, builders, trade subcontractors, code officials and real-estate professionals.

Four in-depth sessions, RSVP for all or only the ones you are interested in

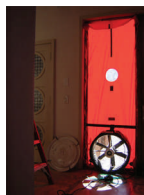

January 25 Introduction to Rating Systems: Regional, LEED and NAHB

- Introduce the rating systems
- Preliminary planning
- Site location credits

February 1 Site and Water

- Lot Design and Preparation
- Heat Island
- Landscaping
- Rainwater and Graywater

February 8 Energy and Envelope

- Performance vs. Prescriptive path
- Orientation and Passive Solar
- HERS Rating
- Advanced Framing

February 15 Materials and IEQ

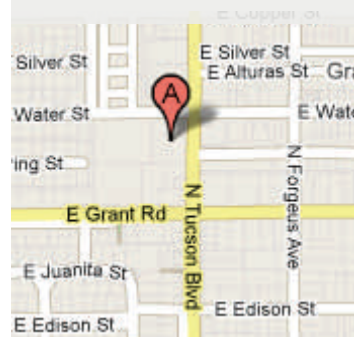

- Environmentally Preferable Products
- Waste Management
- Ventilation
- Mechanical Systems

All sessions
Start: 2:30 p.m.
End: 4:30 p.m.
No charge

Refreshments
sponsored by Tucson
Electric Power

Sign Up Now

Click the Box above or go to:
www.surveymonkey.com/s/Z57QFFH

Location Details:

Tucson Association of REALTORS®

2445 N. Tucson Blvd

Tucson, Az

(520) 327-4218

tucsonrealtors.org

For Questions, contact:
Rich Franz-Under at rich.franz-under@pima.gov
520.740.6892

Presenter: Rich Franz-Under, Architect, LEED AP

- Pima County Green Building Program Manager
- LEED for Homes Provider
- Active in SAHBA Green Build
- Board Member USGBC Arizona Chapter, Southern Branch

Rich has been involved with green building for over a dozen years. He was responsible for the first LEED certified building in Arizona. He is currently managing the certification of 500 green units.

For more information about the rating systems see: www.pimaXpress.com/green

To remove your name from our mailing list, please reply to the sender and let them know or follow the directions at the bottom of the forwarding email...thanks.